Dear Jane,

You obviously take your baby's safety seriously so I thought you'd like to hear about our latest arrival - our sister site, www.babysecurity.co.uk - and a special offer just for you.

As your baby grows, the world becomes their playground. And although it's only natural that they become exposed to more risk, you can help to make sure that they're kept as safe as possible. Here's why mum and dad are heaving a sigh of relief at the moment...

Hush, little baby...

Whether you've managed to get away for the weekend, or are simply visiting friends and family, the Bebetel Mobile Baby Monitor (bsr8004) is a godsend. This top of the range travel monitor connects directly to a mobile phone or telephone line, so you can monitor your baby wherever you are, without the need for a landline. It'll automatically ring you when your baby cries, too... so in the meantime you can relax with a cuppa. Or is that just wishful thinking?

Hot and bothered?

Wrestling with a baby to take their temperature has never been an easy or happy experience for parent or child. Well, thank heavens for the Thermofocus no contact Thermometer (bsr1064) - an altogether less intrusive experience!

This clever little tool uses Infra Red No Contact technology to take readings, making it hygienic and stress-free. You can also use it for testing bath or food temperature.

Mum says...

"I have several digital thermometers and have tried to use them every way but nothing would work to get an accurate reading for my 3 year old, especially when she was sick and fussy!

This product is WONDERFUL! It's easy to use and accurate and it doesn't wake her when she sleeps. I'm expecting twins and I'm glad I'll be able to use it to check bath

Summer may already be fading, but you can keep baby smiling with the Summer Vibrations Up, Up & Away Baby Bouncer (bsr1244) at a 32% saving! Gentle vibrations help to soothe your little one, while detachable plush toys provide fun and stimulation.
